

Been born between many families who were interested in making industrial and Electro-technical equipment, but never been succeeding business that much or

They were applying a classic marketing and supplying strategies. Even Through my last year's experiences in the industry, I was meeting a lot of product fabricant who didn't find the right way to convey items to customers and how to presented well. That's when I got the idea of creating BuyIn witch is a public website where customers can find products that I present for them, they have access to an e-commerce section where they can buy equipment.

Me as an admin is able to add, update and delete the Supplier's products.
, and chooses the price.

First the visitors before becoming a user, he can manage his basket and choose from items what and how much to buy. He will become a user "client" by creating an account, he registers to be able to login and logout.

After registration he is allowed to pass items buy orders to his basket.

He can add and delete items, proceed to payment.
